> Asya and Batu have been best friends since the first grade. They are both members of the school robotics club in Kayseri, and they share everything. One day, Asya told Batu a secret: she wanted to join a national robotics competition, but she was afraid of failing, so she didn’t want anyone to know. Two days later, everyone in the class was talking about it. Asya was really hurt. She thought Batu was a backbiter, and she didn’t speak to him for a whole week. Batu was sad, but he didn’t give up. He found out the truth: a classmate was sitting behind them in the library and heard their conversation. Batu explained everything, and Asya felt terrible. “I’m so sorry I didn’t trust you,” she said. Batu smiled. “Never mind. True friends always make up.” Now they are working on their robot together for the competition.

1. Why didn’t Asya speak to Batu for a week?

   a) He forgot her birthday.
   b) She thought he told her secret.
   c) He moved to another school.
   d) She lost his phone.

2. Who really told the secret?

   a) Batu
   b) Asya’s sister
   c) A classmate who heard them
   d) Their teacher

3. What does “make up” mean in the text?

   a) become friends again
   b) paint your face
   c) tell a lie
   d) invent a story

4. What is the main idea of the story?

a) Libraries are good places to talk.
b) Robotics is a difficult hobby.
c) Secrets are always dangerous.
d) Ask before you judge a friend.

E Challenge – Your turn
