> PHONE-FREE SATURDAYS
> Last spring, five friends from Bursa noticed something strange: they were spending about six hours a day on their phones, even when they were together. “We were sitting in the same café, but nobody was talking,” says Elçin, fifteen. So they started a club called “Phone-Free Saturday”. The rule is simple: every Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., they unplug. They leave their phones at home and meet in Kültürpark. At first, Rüzgar thought the idea was ridiculous. “I was sure I would get bored in ten minutes,” he laughs. But now he is the most active member. The group plays board games, flies kites, cooks together at a friend’s house and sometimes visits the city museum. Today the club has twenty-two members. “I still love my phone,” says Elçin, “but I prefer real conversations to messages now.”

1. Why did the young people start the “Phone-Free Saturday” club?

   a) Their phones were broken.
   b) They were spending too much time online.
   c) Their teacher gave them homework.
   d) The park had no Wi-Fi.

2. What did Rüzgar think at the beginning?

   a) The idea was ridiculous.
   b) The idea was terrific.
   c) Board games were boring.
   d) Kites were expensive.

3. Which activity is NOT mentioned in the text?

a) flying kites b) playing board games c) going bowling d) cooking together

4. The word “unplug” in the text probably means ____.

a) buy a new phone b) stop using electronic devices

c) charge a phone d) take photos

E Challenge – Your turn

Write on the lines. (Satırlara yazın.)

1. Would you like to join a club like “Phone-Free Saturday”? Why or why not? (40–60 words)

2. Write an advert for a new teen club in your town (60–80 words). Say what members do, how often they meet and why it’s fun.
