> On Sunday evening, Hira's phone started buzzing. Her friends were sharing the same post again and again: "Schools in Antalya are closed tomorrow because of the heat!" Everyone was excited, and some students were already planning a beach day. But Hira wasn't sure. The post had no name and no link, and the picture looked old. So she visited the official website of the Provincial Directorate of National Education. There was no news about a holiday. She also checked the date on the photo: it was from three years ago. Hira wrote in the group chat, "It's fake news. Please don't share it." A few students didn't believe her, but on Monday morning, the school gates were open as usual. Their English teacher heard the story and asked Hira to give a short talk to the class. Her advice was simple: check the source, look at the date, and ask a teacher or a parent if you are not sure.

1. What was the fake news about?

   a) a new school rule
   b) a holiday on Monday
   c) free tablets for students
   d) a storm in Antalya

2. How did Hira find out the truth?

   a) She asked her friends.
   b) She waited until Monday.
   c) She checked the official school website.
   d) She called the newspaper.

3. What does "share" mean in the text?

   a) send a post to other people
   b) divide food equally
   c) buy a part of a company
   d) take a photo

4. Which piece of advice is NOT in the text?

a) Check the source.

b) Look at the date.

c) Ask a teacher or parent.

d) Never use the internet for news.

E Challenge – Write

Write on the lines. (Satırlara yazın.)

1. Write a short group message (30–40 words) to stop your friends sharing a fake post.

2. Write five tips for a poster called “Think Before You Click” (one sentence each). Use should, shouldn’t, must or mustn’t.
