> Monday, 15 August
> Dear Diary,
> I’m in Dalyan! I came here two weeks ago to work as a volunteer on İztuzu Beach. Loggerhead sea turtles, or Caretta caretta, lay their eggs on this beach every summer. They are an endangered species, so they need our help.
> Every morning, we walk along the beach at six o’clock and look for new nests. When we find one, we put a metal cage over it to protect the eggs from foxes and dogs. In the afternoon, we talk to tourists and explain the beach rules. Most people listen, but yesterday a man put his umbrella right next to a nest! I asked him to move it, and luckily he did.
> Tonight was the best night of my life. Around midnight, about eighty baby turtles came out of the sand and walked to the sea. They follow the light of the moon, so bright lights on the beach confuse them. Please, if you visit a turtle beach, leave before dark, take your rubbish home and don’t use bright lights on the beach!
> Ela

1. Why did Ela go to Dalyan?

2. Why do the volunteers put metal cages over the nests?

3. What did the baby turtles do on Monday night?

4. What does Ela want people to do?

E Challenge 2: A letter to the mayor

Challenge: Write a letter. (Zenginleştirme: Bir mektup yazın.)

1. Write a short letter to the mayor of your town about a wild animal in your area (birds, foxes, turtles, bears…). Explain the problem and suggest three solutions. (6–7 sentences)
