JOBS OF THE FUTURE

What will you be in 2045? Maybe your dream job doesn’t exist yet! Experts believe the world of work will change a lot in the next twenty years.

Some jobs will be completely new. For example, there will probably be space tour guides. They will take tourists to space hotels and show them the Earth from above. There may also be “vertical farmers”. Cities will be much bigger and there won’t be much free land, so farmers will grow vegetables inside tall buildings, using special lights instead of the sun.

Robots and computers will do many boring and dangerous jobs. They will drive trucks, clean streets and check factories. But they probably won’t replace nurses, teachers or social workers, because people will always need kind and caring humans.

So, how can you prepare for the future? Experts say you should learn many different things, be creative and work well with others. And the most important skill? Never stop learning. The world will keep changing, and you will need to change with it!

1. What will space tour guides do?

2. Why will farmers grow food inside buildings?

3. Which jobs will robots probably not do? Why?

4. What is the writer’s advice for students?

E Challenge 2: A day in 2077

Challenge: Write a short story. (Zenginleştirme: Kısa bir hikâye yazın.)

1. Imagine it is a normal school day in 2077. Write a short story. What will you see, do and eat? How will you travel? Use will, won’t, may and probably. (7–8 sentences)
