Our school magazine talked to Elif Demir (13), the president of the Climate Club at Güneş Secondary School in Konya.
Reporter: Why did you start the club?
Elif: Last summer there was a terrible drought in our region, and my grandfather's wheat field was completely dry. I learned that global warming makes droughts worse. I thought, "We have to take action!"
Reporter: What does the club do?
Elif: We have three rules. First, every member has to bring a reusable water bottle. Second, we must turn off the lights and the smart boards when we leave a classroom. Third, we mustn't waste food in the canteen.
Reporter: Do members have to pay?
Elif: No, they don't have to pay anything. They only have to be responsible.
Reporter: What is your next project?
Elif: We want to put solar panels on the school roof. Solar energy is renewable and efficient. The headmaster likes the idea, so we are writing a letter to the municipality now.
