> At Atatürk Secondary School in Bolu, there is a yellow bench in the school garden. Its name is ‘the Friendship Bench’. Students from the student council painted it last year. The idea is simple: if you feel lonely during the break, you sit on the bench. Then other students see you and invite you to play or chat with them.
> Ömer, a sixth-grader, sat on the bench in his first week. ‘I didn’t know anyone,’ he says. ‘After two minutes, two eighth-graders came and asked me to play table tennis with them.’ Now the three boys are good buddies.
