Most of us use the internet for school work. We usually search for information on search engines and download worksheets from our teachers' websites. Watching videos is the second most popular activity. Only a few students shop online, and they always do it with their parents. On weekdays, most students spend one or two hours online. At weekends, this number goes up. "I spend about four hours a day online at weekends," says Bora. "That's too much. I want to cut down my screen time and spend more time outdoors." In fact, 20 students said the same thing: they want to use the internet less.
