> GRANDMA HATİCE'S MIHLAMA (RİZE)
> Mıhlama is a traditional dish from the Black Sea region. It is usually eaten for breakfast, and it is cooked in a small frying pan. You need two tablespoons of butter, two tablespoons of corn flour, a glass of water, a pinch of salt and a big handful of stretchy cheese.
> First, melt the butter in the pan over low heat. Then add the corn flour and stir it for about two minutes. Next, pour in the water slowly and keep stirring, so there are no lumps. After that, add the cheese and the salt. Don't stir too much now; wait until the cheese melts and the oil comes to the top. Finally, serve it hot with fresh bread. Grandma says the secret is patience: if you cook it too fast, it won't be stretchy!
