In the Aksoy family, everybody has a responsibility at home. Mrs Aksoy is a nurse, and she works long hours at the hospital, so the children have to help. Twelve-year-old Ayşe is in charge of feeding the cat and watering the plants. She enjoys these chores because she loves animals and flowers. Her brother Cem is fourteen. He has to take out the rubbish every evening and vacuum the carpets on Saturdays. He can't stand vacuuming because the machine is too noisy, but he doesn't mind doing the dishes.

Mr Aksoy usually cooks dinner and does the laundry. On Sundays, nobody has to cook, because they visit their grandmother and eat her delicious mantı. Mrs Aksoy's rule is simple: "You must make your bed every morning, and you mustn't leave your clothes on the floor!"
