Science teacher Ms. Yalçın talked to our school magazine about classrooms of the future. “I believe the future is around the corner,” she said. “In twenty years, students won’t carry heavy bags full of textbooks. They will use light tablets, and in Science lessons they will put on VR headsets and walk on the surface of Mars or travel inside the human body. Robots will help with simple tasks like checking homework or turning on the lights. But teachers won’t disappear. Students will always need real people who guide them, listen to them and encourage them.”

1. According to Ms. Yalçın, what will students use instead of textbooks?

   a) Robots
   b) Tablets and VR headsets
   c) Notebooks
   d) Televisions

2. What will robots do in the future classroom?

   a) Teach all lessons
   b) Write exams
   c) Help with simple tasks
   d) Replace teachers

3. Why does Ms. Yalçın think teachers will still be important?

   a) Because robots are expensive.
   b) Because students need people to guide and encourage them.
   c) Because technology is dangerous.
   d) Because schools will close.

4. Which word in the text means “happen soon”?

   a) Imagine
   b) Guide
   c) Disappear
   d) Be around the corner
