> Sofia is a sixteen-year-old student from Portugal. She came to Gaziantep as an exchange student and has been living with a Turkish host family for four months. Before she came, she was worried about the language. However, what surprised her most was how hospitable people were. “My neighbours often bring us food, and strangers help me when I get lost,” she says. She also loves Turkish breakfast, which is long and rich, with cheese, olives, eggs and fresh bread. Sofia has learned to say many phrases in Turkish and plans to come back with her parents next summer.
