Wheelchair basketball was first played in the 1940s by injured soldiers in the United States and the United Kingdom. Today it is one of the most popular Paralympic sports and is played in about 100 countries. The rules are very similar to those of ordinary basketball: the court is the same size and the basket is at the same height. However, players must bounce or pass the ball after every two pushes of their wheels. Each player is given a classification point from 1.0 to 4.5 according to their physical ability, and the five players on the court cannot have more than 14 points in total. This system ensures that teams are balanced and that players with different abilities can compete together.
