> Last summer, my family and I visited Cappadocia in the middle of Turkey. It is a famous place with strange rock shapes. People call them fairy chimneys. Thousands of years ago, volcanoes covered the area with ash. Then wind and rain slowly shaped the soft rock. We stayed in a cave hotel in Göreme. It was cool inside, even on hot days. On our second day, we got up at four in the morning for a hot air balloon ride. It was dark and a little cold. When the sun came up, more than a hundred balloons were in the sky with us. The view was amazing! After the ride, we visited an old underground city. I want to go back to Cappadocia one day.
